Budget

A fashion marketing campaign costs around 50,000 to 75,000 per month.

Problem Statement: The prevailing trend in the fashion industry leans towards fast fashion, characterized by mass production, low-quality materials, and exploitative labour practices. This not only contributes to environmental degradation but also perpetuates unfair working conditions within the industry.

Empathize & Discover

1. Customer Personas:

Create detailed customer personas based on demographics, interests, lifestyle, and shopping behaviour. For example, consider personas like "Sustainable Sarah," who values eco-friendly fashion, or "Busy Brian," who looks for versatile, easy-to-care-for clothing.

2. Surveys and Feedback:

Conduct surveys or interviews with potential customers. Ask about their clothing preferences, pain points with existing options, and what they value most in their clothing purchases.

3. Market Trends and Competitor Analysis:

Research current fashion trends, especially those relevant to your target audience. Analyse your competitors to understand their strengths and weaknesses.

4. Social Media Listening:

Monitor social media platforms for conversations related to fashion and clothing preferences. Pay attention to what your potential customers are saying and sharing.

5. Retail Environment Analysis:

If applicable, visit retail spaces where your clothing might be sold. Observe how shoppers interact with clothing displays, what they're looking for, and any frustrations they encounter.

6. Online Communities and Forums:

Engage with online communities or forums related to fashion. Listen to discussions and participate in conversations to gain insights into consumer preferences and pain points.

7. User Testing and Prototyping:

If you have sample clothing items, conduct user testing sessions. Observe how individuals interact with the garments, what they like or dislike, and any suggestions they may have.

8. Storytelling and Lifestyle Imagery:

Use storytelling and lifestyle imagery to connect emotionally with your audience. Show how your clothing can fit into their everyday lives, addressing their needs and aspirations.

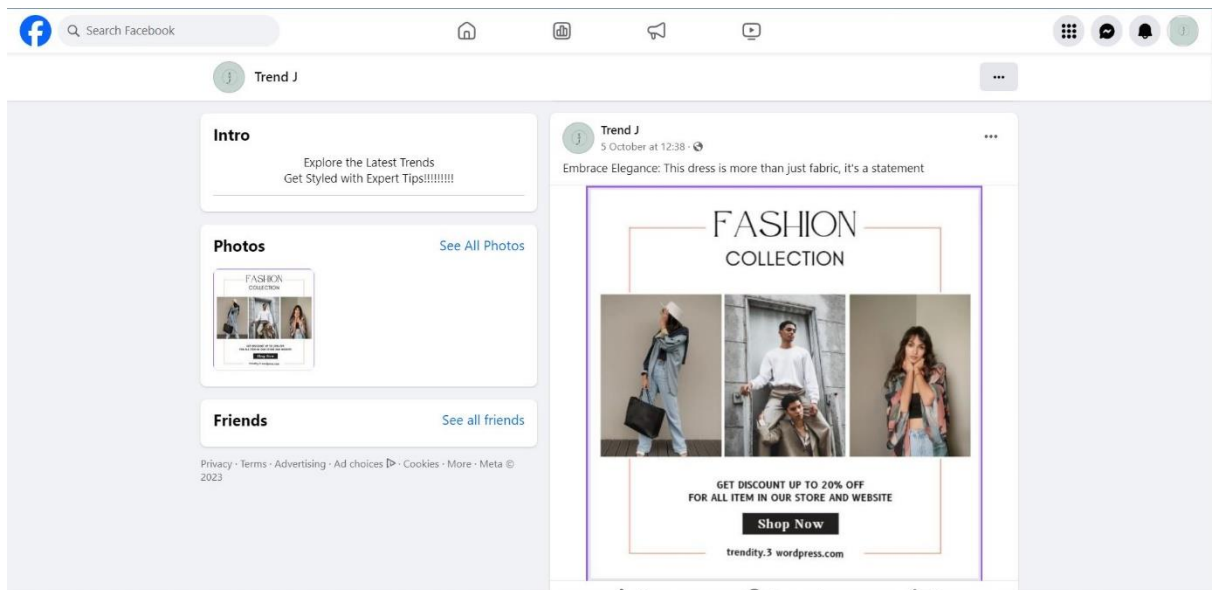

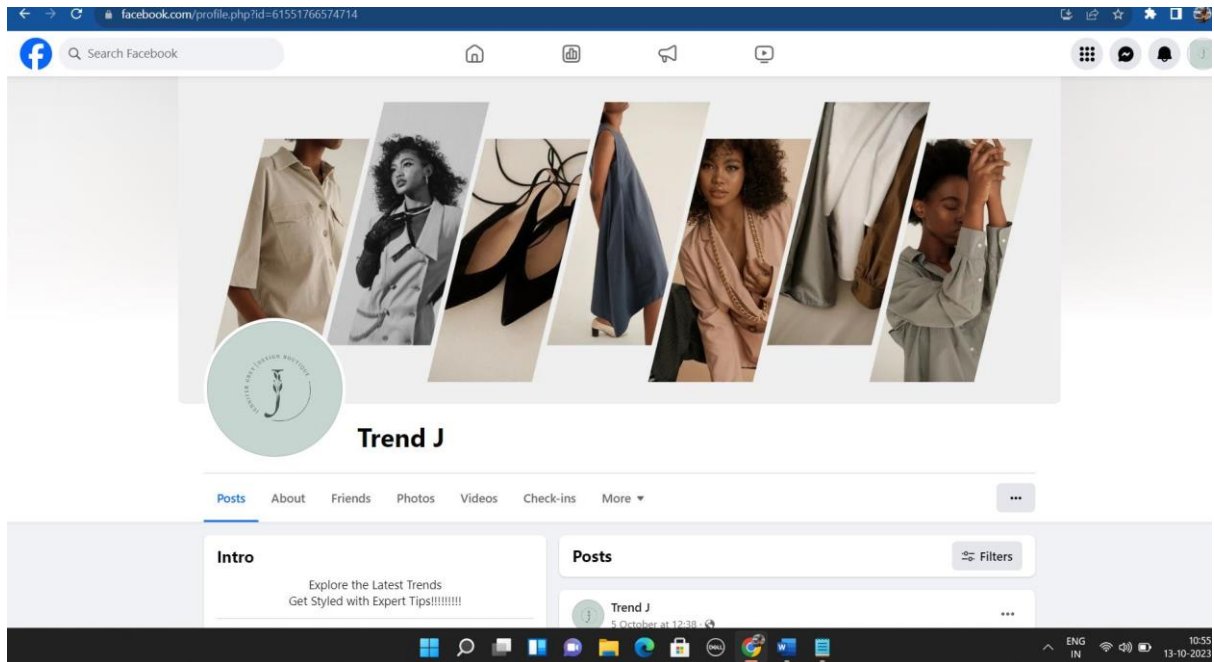

9. Feedback Loops:

Establish channels for ongoing feedback from your customers. This could be through customer surveys after purchases, social media engagement, or a dedicated feedback platform on your website.

10. Problem-Solution Mapping:

Identify specific problems or pain points your potential customers face regarding clothing. Map these to potential solutions that your brand can offer.
